DVV Clarifications	HEI Response
Grants should have been claimed solely for research-related activities. None qualified, hence the claims were revised. The HEI's claims appear to pertain to a short-term project. For example, allotment letter reference No. LT/624/2023, dated March 14, 2023, was issued by Linkwell Technologies for the project titled "System and Method for Transmitting Electronic Vouchers via Short Messages," which bears no relevance to research or innovation. Therefore, such claims do not satisfy the requirements of the current metric. A research project must be based on the evaluation of a research proposal, which should have been assessed by experts in the relevant field. Such engagements typically culminate in research papers addressing the issues identified in the proposal. The HEI must provide: i. The research proposal submitted to or by the HEI's faculty (Principal Investigator), ii. Requisition letter(s), and iii. Research papers published by the Principal Investigator.	This is to clarify that, all the grants have been claimed solely for research-related activities. All the Grants are received for research and development projects. The links for the support documents for the assessment year is given in the preceding table for kind approval.
